

The Epicurean Lowland Malt Scotch Whisky tells the story of a 1930s Glasgow man, a real cheeky chappy who was ever the life and soul of the party, and a real connoisseur of fine food and drink. A dram we describe as “city born and bred”, The Epicurean is a blend of some of the finest Lowland Malts; a marriage of the best that the East and the West of Scotland have to offer. This small batch bottling is proudly without coloring or chill-filtration and bottled at 46.2% ABV.

In a tippie of our Small Batch “The Epicurean”, you can bet on a nose that is barley-rich, citric, floral and herbal, showing hints of green apple, under-ripe melon, lemongrass, and mint. The sweet and mouth-coating palate displays crunched sugar, burnt citrus, mixed spices, thyme, peaches and hard candy. All charmingly underpinned and enriched in the finish with more of that earlier herbal character, in a gristy style with almonds, fresh parsley, cut grass and burnt sugar. Notes of green tea with jasmine.

Matured exclusively in ex-bourbon casks, this fresh and distillate-driven Lowlander showcases malts from such distilleries as Ailsa Bay, Auchentoshan, and Glenkinchie. The Epicurean is a wonderful snapshot of the exciting malt whiskies being produced today in the Lowlands. A blended malt for those looking for something fresh, bright, and vibrant
